Subject: Georgian Wine Tasting

Greetings! I do media relations for the country of Georgia, and I thought you would be interested in this event – a Georgian wine tasting hosted by Economy and Development Minister Vera Kobalia – on Monday. Georgia is believed to be the oldest wine producing region in the world, and today has about 150,000 acres of vineyards and produces about 60 million bottles per year. Please see the invitation, below, and a few links following that. Best Regards.
